Chapter 1431

James and Helen were so excited.

Here in Eastshire, it is not easy to own a house.

Now, President Ramsey is going to give us a building? That is beyond our dreams! As for Lynn, her mouth was agape and she couldn't return to her senses.

For her, it was an extravagant wish to buy a small apartment of thirty square meters in Eastshire.

However, one had to give James and Helen a building as compensation after scolding them a little.

The gap between humans was simply unimaginable for her.

James and Helen immediately looked at Matthew, wishing he would agree to it quickly.

They were willing to get beaten into pulp if it meant getting a whole building in Eastshire.

Chapter 1432

The next day after breakfast, James and Helen excitedly suggested that they visit the building given by President Ramsey.

At the same time, Helen invited Lynn too.

During the dinner the day before, Helen found that Lynn's mother was her classmate in middle school and they were friends back then.

Therefore, Helen liked Lynn even more and regarded Lynn as her junior.

Half an hour later, they arrived at Northland.

As a relatively high-end residential area in Eastshire, Northland was a luxurious city.

Although it was not as good as the Lakeside Garden and the Grand Garden in Eastcliff, it was still a high-end residential area.

James and Helen repeatedly nodded as they were satisfied with the area.

As for Lynn, she was getting envious.

Any house in this area was a mansion to her.

Lynn's face flushed when she heard Adele's words.

Adele was clearly making fun of her, implying that she wasn't qualified to enter Southland.

"I..Can't I have something on here?" Lynn retorted indignantly.

To that, Adele simply laughed.

"You mean here, in Southland? This is a high-end residential area with only Eastshire's wealthiest families, and you said you have something on here? Either you live here, or do you know any of the residents here?' That stumped Lynn.

"I- I..."

Adele had always been an arrogant and conceited person.

Looking at Lynn's embarrassed manner, she was immensely proud of what she had said.

However, she pretended to be concerned and said, "Lynn, we're classmates. You don't need to pretend to be someone else to impress me. You're from a small town, and I'm well aware of your family's condition. In fact, whether you are wealthy or not is unimportant at all. The most important thing is to know who you are and be realistic. Do you understand?"

Though she appeared to be educating Lynn, she was actually mocking her.

Adele had a mocking expression on her face, as if she was making fun of Helen and Lynn.

After all, it was difficult enough to live in Southland, let alone own an entire building.

Hence, she deduced they must be boasting.

Eastshire had always limited each one's purchase of units.

Furthermore, Southland was also the most popular neighborhood in the entire district.

How was it possible for someone to own an entire building here? Hence, she completely treated Helen and Lynn as if they were insane.

Helen, however, responded leisurely, "Building No.1 is ours!"

Hearing that, Adele was stunned at first, but she quickly regained her composure and laughed yet again.

"Building No.1? You're so amusing, Madam! Do you have any idea how much Building No.1 costs? Do you know that this is the most expensive building in Southland? And now you're saying that the building is yours? You're so funny and I just can't stop laughing!"

The bald man then walked to the side to call his buddy.

After several attempts, the call was finally answered.

The moment the call was picked up, he immediately repeated the entire incident to the person on the other end of the line.

When he finished speaking, there was a dead silence over the phone.

The bald man had no idea what was going on, so he continued, "These scumbags are definitely swindlers, Robbie! Perhaps they're using your building as a deception! Do you want to come here and have a look? They may get you in trouble in the future if they use your building in their deceptive acts!"

Finally, there was a response from the other end of the phone.

In a bone-chilling cold voice, the person said, "Wait for me. I'll be there soon!"

The bald man was overjoyed to hear that.

After hanging up the phone, he arrogantly spoke to Matthew.

"Hey, you! Robbie will be here soon, so you can just wait to meet your doom!"

President Ramsey bowed and smiled respectfully as he said, "Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham, I actually live close by. I rushed over here as soon as I realized the four of you were here. I apologize for not being more attentive"

He was now extremely polite to them. He would be dead right now if Tommy hadn't personally pleaded for him yesterday.

Despite learning of Matthew and the crown prince's identities, President Ramsey harbored no ill will toward them.

Instead, he was grateful that his life had been saved.

When he answered the phone and was told that someone had arrived at his Building No. 1, he assumed right away that it was Matthew and the others.

As a result, he dared not delay any longer and dashed here. A curious Helen asked, "But the bald man mentioned a 'Robbie'? Who is that?"

"Robbie is my nickname, Mrs. Cunningham" President Ramsey replied with a smile.

President Ramsey responded immediately, a bright light flashing in his eyes.He then turned to face the bald man.

"How dare you enrage Mr.Larson, you b*astard? You're tired of living, aren't you?"

Hearing that, the bald man turned pale and with his mouth trembling, he muttered, "Robbie, I...I don't know who Mr.Larson is.I'm not sure who Mr.Larson is.I wouldn't have done that if I hadn't known he was your friend! It's true! Please give me a second chance.I'll never do the same thing again"

As he spoke, he almost fell to his knees.But that didn't appeal to President Ramsey at all.He motioned with his hand and said, "Come on.Take this b*astard away"

A few strong men then appeared and took the bald man away without saying anything.

Adele, on the other hand, was trembling as she stood off to one side.She didn't even dare to open her mouth.

When the bald man heard that, he immediately collapsed to the floor. He did not even dare to provoke President Ramsey, let alone Master Marshall or the Ten Great Families. He totally could not comprehend how great the figure that he had offended was! Even President Ramsey had to kneel for the entire night, so he dared not think about his future.

Adele, on the other hand, was utterly pale at this point.

The entire incident was caused by her, who mocked Lynn in order to show off her superiority to her classmate.

But she had never expected the people beside Lynn to be such powerful figures.

When Adele saw them with Lynn, she didn't take them seriously because she assumed they were merely Lynn's relatives.

However, it turned out that she had offended such a big shot. She really brought all this upon herself! If she had known about the situation earlier, she would have tried to get close to Lynn.

Goodness knows that she might even have gotten something out of it. But it was too late now.

The most important thing now was to deal with the situation at hand.

Thinking about the fact that she would meet her doom when President Ramsey returned, she trembled in fear.

Meanwhile, President Ramsey had brought Matthew and the others to Building No.1.

President Ramsey hurriedly told her, "Please don't hold back, Mrs. Campbell. All these furniture and appliances don't cost a lot, anyway. Just think of them as both a token of my sincerity and a housewarming present from me. You don't have to worry if it would look good at your new place either. I pre-ordered them way earlier, so they will definitely look like one with the interior!"

At that, Helen and James smilingly turned to look at each other.

They were well aware that Matthew was the reason why President Ramsey was so thorough and meticulous. But then again, they were comfortable enough with the arrangement.

The man definitely wouldn't have bought cheap furniture and appliances for a place.

As such, it could easily have cost at least tens of millions for the furnishing of the building.

Of course, Helen and James were more than glad to be able to save their money.

President Ramsey then made a phone call, and it didn't take long before several trucks arrived and came to a stop in front of the building.

All of them were here to deliver goods.

Matthew and a few other people had already rushed over to University Town in Eastshire on Saturday morning.

Lynn had caught wind that there was a job recruitment fair in town that day.

Therefore, James and Helen decided to take the chance to recruit a group of employees here.

Sasha had to go and meet a few suppliers today, while James and Helen were going to the renovation company to discuss the renovation.

The only one available among them was Matthew, so he was the one tasked on this errand to handle the recruitment.

Fortunately, with Lynn's help, the duo managed to finish decorating the place after going at it for more than an hour.

After they were done cleaning up, she hurried to the front to hand out flyers, leaving Matthew to sit here alone for the recruitment.

It was about 10 AM when the other recruiting companies started entering the venue one after another.

Compared with the grand decorations of other companies, the table temporarily set up by Matthew and Lynn definitely couldn't compare.

The difference was especially stark when two big companies that were well-known in Eastshire came and did their set-up beside Matthew.
